Colour Range Metals, Woods, Glass and Other Finishes Colour Range Whether your style is bold pops of colour or more muted, on-trend greys, B&D; have a wide range of popular colour combinations, textures, and profiles to ensure that your garage door looks beautiful and stands out on your street. With your garage door accounting for as much as 60% of your homes facade it's important that it makes a strong first impression. We've got safety and security covered but with colour and design the choice is up to you. Browse our wide range of colours and finishes below. 2025 Trend Prediction - 50 shades of grey If you follow renovation trends closely you know that grey has been having a moment in housing exteriors in a BIG way. Colorbond released four new, on trend colours at the end of 2022 and half of them are beautiful, clean shades of grey. As a key Colorbond partner, B&D; have access to the new range of colours including Southerly and Blue Gum. Pantone also selected Ultimate Gray as one of its 2021 Colors of the Year, demonstrating again what a moment this colour is having in home renovation. Here at B&D; we wholeheartedly agree that grey is here to stay. It's everyone's favourite colour for a reason! If you're looking to take on this timeless trend try colours like Shale Grey, Woodland Grey or Basalt. Shale Grey Cove Wallaby Basalt Woodland Grey Gully Earthy tones & warm hues One of the biggest colour trends at the moment is warm, natural, earthy hues. Think muted ochres, terracotta tiles and dulled-down shades that bring the calm, grounded warmth of the outdoors into the home. The exterior of the home is no different with warm tones providing a relaxing contrast to the shiny, metallic hues and finishes that come with modern technology. Grounding yourself in the warmth of Terrain, Manor Red, Stone and Pale Eucalypt will help give your home a calm, muted feeling that invites people in to rest and recharge. Terrain Manor Red

Headland Cove Pale Eucalypt Wilderness Stone Coastal blues & bright whites If you live in the northern half of Australia it's hard to walk down a suburban street without seeing a beautiful new Hamptons-style home, complete with a pristine, whitewashed garage door and stylish windows . Effortlessly elegant, coastal blues and bright whites have a timeless charm that many home owners gravitate to. With a huge variety to choose from including bright, bold blues to more muted almost grey tinges there's a tone for every homes' unique aesthetic. In the right proportions blue and white exteriors provide you a classic combination that never dates and always feels fresh. Opt for bright minimalism with Dover White, Surfmist or Shale Grey or go for cool luxury with Deep Ocean, Ironstone or Windspray. Dover White Surfmist Shale Grey Deep Ocean Windspray Ironstone Dark, moody & contemporary Scandi interiors had a big moment for a long time. Then something shifted and designers and architects once again began dipping back into moody, inkier, more contemporary hues as we started to see dark colours once again taking centre stage. As people turned the exteriors of their home back to the dark side, it was clear that this wasn't the monocromatic moment of the early 2000's, but instead a way to create sultry drama in your home's façade. When used correctly, dark hues can add interest to a space, making it feel modern, moody and luxurious. So embrace the dark side with colours like Monument, Night Sky or Loft. Monument Night Sky Ironstone Metal, Wood & Glass Designs If you're looking for a more architecturally inspired statement for your home, then look no further than B&D's brilliant range of metal, timber-look and glass-like designs, textures and finishes. Your garage door takes up 60% of your homes frontage, so it's more important than ever that if you're going to make a statement why not make it a big one! Metal, wood and glass are timeless additions to any home's exterior. Wooden garage doors are having a huge moment as people look to build more sustainably using natural materials, while glass looking Sheer Panel doors make your home look contemporary and sleek. 2025 Trend Prediction - Timber & wooden-look doors No matter what your style or budget, there's a timber-look garage door to suit your needs. Natural timber garage doors have always been a beautiful design element, but the harsh Australian environment means that wooden features age and decay quickly. The good news is you can enjoy the warmth and vibrancy of natural timber without the continual upkeep and maintenance with wooden-look steel garage doors. It's the best of both worlds! Panelift sectional doors come in a range of timber-look colours, including two COLORBOND Timbagrain shades and 10 incredible Knotwood tones. A timber-look Roll-A-Door Neo can beautifully complement a cooler colour palette; consider Golden Oak or Japan Cherry in B&D's exclusive Timber Coat range. For a more high-end, premium look without the hefty price tag, our Designer range of doors are bespoke and manufactured to your exact requirements. Discover profile and design options available with Panelift Icon to complement the exterior features of your home's façade. If you're after a sleeker, more streamlined aesthetic the B&D sectional door range features a variety of options to cater every home design and needs. Our roller door range offers space-saving, no-nonsense designs to meet every home's design needs.
