If you've ever considered upgrading to a garage door with windows , you'll know it's not just about curb appeal—it also allows natural light into your garage, making the space feel more welcoming and usable. This is particularly useful if your garage lacks windows or you frequently need to turn on the light upon entering. Regardless of how handy you are, adding window inserts is a task best left to professionals, ensuring it's done right, looks great, and doesn't impact your warranty. Understanding Window Inserts Window inserts are custom panels fitted into the top section of your garage door. They often come in plain, classic, or contemporary designs, but not all doors can accommodate them. At B&D;, we only manufacture window inserts on Panelift and Panelift Icon sectional garage doors with the Statesman or Grange profile. You can choose between Plain and Stockton window inserts, both designed to enhance natural light while maintaining the sleek look of your door. While they enhance your home's visual appeal, their main benefit is improved lighting inside the garage. If you're looking to upgrade to a garage door with windows, window inserts offer an efficient and attractive solution. Choosing the Right Windows Selecting the right window inserts involves considering both the style of your home and the functionality of the garage. Take a look at our new sectional garage door brochure to see the options available. In some cases, you can add window inserts to selected panels rather than the entire row. Choosing window inserts supplied by the same manufacturer as your garage door is recommended. This will ensure that the panel design and colour match the rest of the door. However, if you are adding window inserts to an older garage door, you should expect some colour variation due to weathering and fading. B&D;'s Plain and Stockton window inserts are designed to match your Panelift and Panelift Icon door finish, ensuring a seamless, premium look. Inserts are usually installed on the top panel of the door for optimal lighting and privacy balance. Can Window Inserts Be Added to Any Garage Door? No—not all B&D; garage doors are compatible with window inserts. Inserts can only be added to Panelift and Panelift Icon sectional doors with either the Statesman or Grange profile. Other sectional or roller doors in the B&D; range do not support insert installation due to structural limitations and safety concerns. During your consultation, a B&D; Accredited Dealer can assess whether your existing door qualifies and offer guidance if a new door is required. Impact on Performance and Warranty Adding inserts slightly changes the weight of your garage door. That's why B&D; professionals re-tension the door's springs during installation to ensure it continues to perform safely and smoothly. Importantly, when installed by an Accredited Dealer, your B&D; Total Confidence Warranty remains valid. DIY installation, on the other hand, may void your warranty. Installing window inserts professionally helps safeguard your investment in both function and form. Professional Installation While DIY projects can be tempting, installing window inserts requires precision and expertise. Here are the benefits of professional installation: Accuracy: Professionals ensure that the window inserts are aligned and securely fitted, preventing issues like drafts and water leaks which can occur from improper installation. Tools and Techniques: Specialist tools are needed to fit the windows properly. Professionals have the necessary equipment and know-how to handle these tasks efficiently and safely. Warranty and Compliance: Professional installation ensures that any warranty on your garage door remains valid. Safety: Handling glass and heavy materials can be hazardous. Trained technicians can perform the job safely, reducing the risk of injury and damage to your property. Daylight, Security, and Convenience A garage door with windows not only boosts natural light but also helps reduce electricity usage—especially if you use the garage as a gym, workshop, or entry point to your home. To add peace of mind, B&D;'s AUTO LOCK™™ and Smart Phone Control systems pair perfectly with insert-equipped doors, offering enhanced visibility without compromising security. Consultation and Customisation If you have a B&D; garage door, contact us to schedule a free consultation. We can meet you in your driveway or in our showroom—whichever is more convenient. This lets us confirm whether window inserts can be added to your current door and discuss design options. Once you've selected your inserts, we'll provide a quote and estimate how long manufacturing will take. Actual installation usually finishes within a day, keeping disruptions minimal. FAQs About Garage Doors With Windows Can I add window inserts to my existing B&D; door? Only if you have a Panelift or Panelift Icon sectional door with a Statesman or Grange profile.
