But unfortunately, Australia's harsh climate can wreak havoc on the structure of wooden garage doors, meaning they typically require a lot of upkeep. The garage door can make up as much as 60% of a home's facade, so it should make a lasting impression. Timber-look garage doors are a simple yet effective way to achieve wow-factor without your home's façade needing a major overhaul. Coordinating Timber With Different Tones Pair the rich tones of a timber-look garage door with a white, cream or neutral colour palette for a subtle but classic effect. Otherwise, mix and match exterior wooden features such as front doors or window frames to complement a timber-look garage door. Timber looks especially striking against black or dark cladding. A standard home painted in a dark colour can become the star of the street with the addition of a stunning wood-look garage door. Explore more timber tones and colour matching in our Designs & Colours Gallery . Timber-clad, Traditional Exteriors Federation-style homes look spectacular with timber-look sectional garage doors in a rectangular-pressed pattern. With a range of B&D; Panelift profiles available, opt for Statesman or Grange in a woodgrain finish using Timbagrain Classic Cedar or Caoba. Alternatively, consider Seville in a woodgrain finish. Seville's subtle, horizontally ribbed panels are particularly suited to weatherboard and brick cladding. Colour options include two Timbagrain colours, as well as the striking Knotwood collection in 10 unique timber tones. Knotwood is a high-quality wood-grain finish that boasts the durable, sturdy qualities of steel, with little-to-no maintenance required. Available on Panelift Seville, Turino and Madrid profiles , it's been specially designed to replicate the warmth and character of popular Australian native and exotic timbers. Wooden Features For Modern Homes The mixed-material trend is making a mark in modern architecture, with many properties featuring various shades and tones from different materials such as metal and wood. When paired with other design elements around the home, this not only maintains consistency but also delivers a dramatic first impression. Contemporary homes with linear features and geometric shapes look superb with flat-panel garage doors such as the B&D; Panelift Icon or Panelift . If your home has a contrasting façade with sleek, modern lines, try a dark, moody Knotwood shade like Wenge or Black Walnut on a Seville, Turino, or Madrid profile. Lighter schemes pair beautifully with softer timber tones like Aspen, Weathered Oak, or Tassie Oak. Tasteful Timber-Look Roller Doors With its subtle woodgrain effects and tones, B&D's Timber Coat range is the first of its kind to merge the appearance of natural timber with the hard-wearing quality of steel on a Roll-A-Door. The street appeal of a roller door gets a serious upgrade with four B&D-exclusive; Timber Coat finishes: Japan Cherry, Macadamia Nutwood, Hickory Nutwood and Golden Oak. The range is available on all doors in the Roll-A-Door range, except those with a smooth finish. Sustainable timber garage doors B&D's Designer Doors range brings you beautiful wood-look styles that combine stunning designs and profiles for new homes. These include Colorbond Steel Timbergrain and Knotwood Colours to achieve the wooden appeal without the usual maintenance headaches. If you're seeking a garage door that provides the warmth of wood but can withstand Australia's demanding climate, consider these timber-look options.
